

ABSTRACT

A Container for Aerated Beverages

A container including a cover and a body with a cavity for containing an aerated 5 beverage, the body and cover being releasably engageable with each other in an air-tight manner, and when the body and the cover are engaged with each other, a part of the cover extends into the cavity of the body to increase the air pressure in the cavity above atmospheric pressure.

10 [Fig. 8]